Bailiff (Courtroom) We are brought here today for the trial of The Three Little Pigs Versus the Big Bad Wolf. All have been sworn in. We are ready to start thanks Judge.

Judge So, after reading this case, I see that Mr Wolf -

Wolf Big bad is okay mate.

Judge I will call you Mr Wolf and you will address me as Judge. I am not your mate.

Wolf Okay, keep your wig on mate; I mean Judge, mate.

Judge Now you have been charged with some serious offences here Mr Wolf.

Wolf Not guilty Judge, mate.

Judge We haven't got that far yet.

Wolf Sorry, just trying to hurry this up a little. I have to meet a mate. You know how it is, busy schedule and all. I'm sure you have a ferrari that needs a service or something.

Judge No, I don't know how it is and I don't have a ferrari.

Wolf I have a mate who deals with cars, only deals with cash though, if you want to see me after.

Judge You have been charged with assault, one count of murder, two counts of attempted murder, break and entering, threatening life, and damaging property. How do you plead?

Wolf Wow! Doesn't sound good if you put it that way. I think I'll go with 'not guilty'.

Judge Pigs! (He turns as Wolf yells out)

Wolf Pigs where? I didn't do it. You can't prove anything.

Judge Are you okay?

Wolf Oh you meant these guys. Hi how are you doing?

Judge Okay pigs, who would you like to call to the stand

Pig 3 Well I call to the stand my brother Edgar. (Edgar pig goes to the stand)

Edgar He did it. He did all of it.

Judge Maybe just wait to be asked a question.

Pig 3 Please point out the wolf who blew your house down.

Edgar It was that hairy bath mat. (He points at the wolf)

Wolf See I didn't do it; it was a bath mat. Case closed.

Pig 3 The Big Bad Wolf came to my house and said he wanted to eat me.

Wolf Eat with you. I was going to take you out for lunch.

Pig 3 He said he liked bacon and I would taste good on his fork.

Wolf Objection your honour! That seems like pretty damning evidence and I want that taken from the record.

Judge Overruled.

Wolf Does that mean you are?

Judge No.

Wolf Damn it! That's not good.

Pig 3 Then what happened?

Edgar He said he'd huff and puff and blow my house down.

Wolf I said 'Enough. Enough. I'll paint your house brown'. I'm a helpful type of guy.

Edgar Then he blew and blew and my house came down.

Wolf It was made of straw. You are supposed to blow into a straw. I do it all the time at the milkshake shop. How did I know it would fall down?

Edgar My whole life savings was in a mess on the floor.

Wolf Between you and me Judge, mate, it was a pretty bad house. A bit of an eye sore really.

Pig 3 Oh that's the last straw! (He gets up and storms off)

Judge Next! (annoyed).

Pig 3 I would like to bring Boris to the stand.

Wolf Hey that isn't the pig for the second house.

Pig 3 Well of course not. That is his neighbour. Our other brother is in your stomach, remember? You ate him.

Wolf Oh sorry about that!

Pig 3 So Boris what do you remember about the day my brother was scoffed down by that wolf?

Wolf I object! I took my time. I get awful indigestion you know. The old heartburn gets me when I eat fatty things.

Pig 3 So you admit eating him?

Wolf No comment.

Pig 3 Sorry Boris, what do you remember?

Boris That wolf knocked on your brother's door and started threatening him, saying he was going to eat him and he asked if he had any eggs with him because he liked eggs with his bacon.

Wolf I do like eggs.

Boris He refused to open the door so he said he'd huff and puff and blow his house down.

Wolf I said it's tough and rough to wear a ball gown. I knew he liked to wear them. I was just being kind to him.

Boris Then the whole house fell down and your poor brother tried to run. He never stood a chance. He gobbled him up.

Wolf There were no eggs. Who doesn't have eggs?

Pig 3 Thanks Boris. I know it's hard. I want to call the wolf up to the stage.
(The wolf goes up)

Pig 3 Why don't you like us pigs?

Wolf Oh but I do. I like you a lot. I am a massive fan. Well not as in blow your house down fan. I mean I like pigs.

Pig 3 Yeh for breakfast!

Edgar On a spit.

Boris With crackling.

Judge We get it.

Wolf I didn't blow your house down. I was just testing it for safety, and let me tell you piggies it failed. And I was only chasing that first piggie up the road, because he dropped his wallet.

Edgar I don't have a wallet.

Wolf That day you did. As for your other brother, he actually died under the sticks and I was just saving you the heartache of an expensive burial. Actually, I think I should sue for the money owed to me.

Pig 3 You are a murderer!

Wolf Wow that was harsh. Stop hamming it up chubby.

Pig 3 What about me then? You asked if you could come in and eat me. But my house was too good to blow down wasn't it?

Wolf Okay that's two questions. Is he allowed that?

Judge I'll allow it.

Wolf Thanks Judge. Keep this up and we won't be mates. Okay so yes your house was good, well down, and secondly all I said was come out and chew the fat a little, but you took it the wrong way.

Pig 3 That's a lie.

Wolf Is it? Well what about you then? You tried to burn me alive in a boiling pot.

Pig 3 You broke in through the chimney and fell into our dinner.

Wolf Oh sure. The making dinner excuse. He's just trying to save his own bacon.

Pig 3 I have no further questions, your honour.

Wolf So am I free to go now? It's been a blast. Do you other pigs want to come over for dinner tonight? I'm sure I can stomach it.

Judge Sit down Wolf. Will the jury please recess and come back with your verdict.

Wolf Wow how petty is this.
